Violet was running through the darkness from a spider. She looked down and realized the spider had caught her leg!

Violet was an ant who was afraid of spiders but was really good at escaping from them. Her goal was to find a new world.

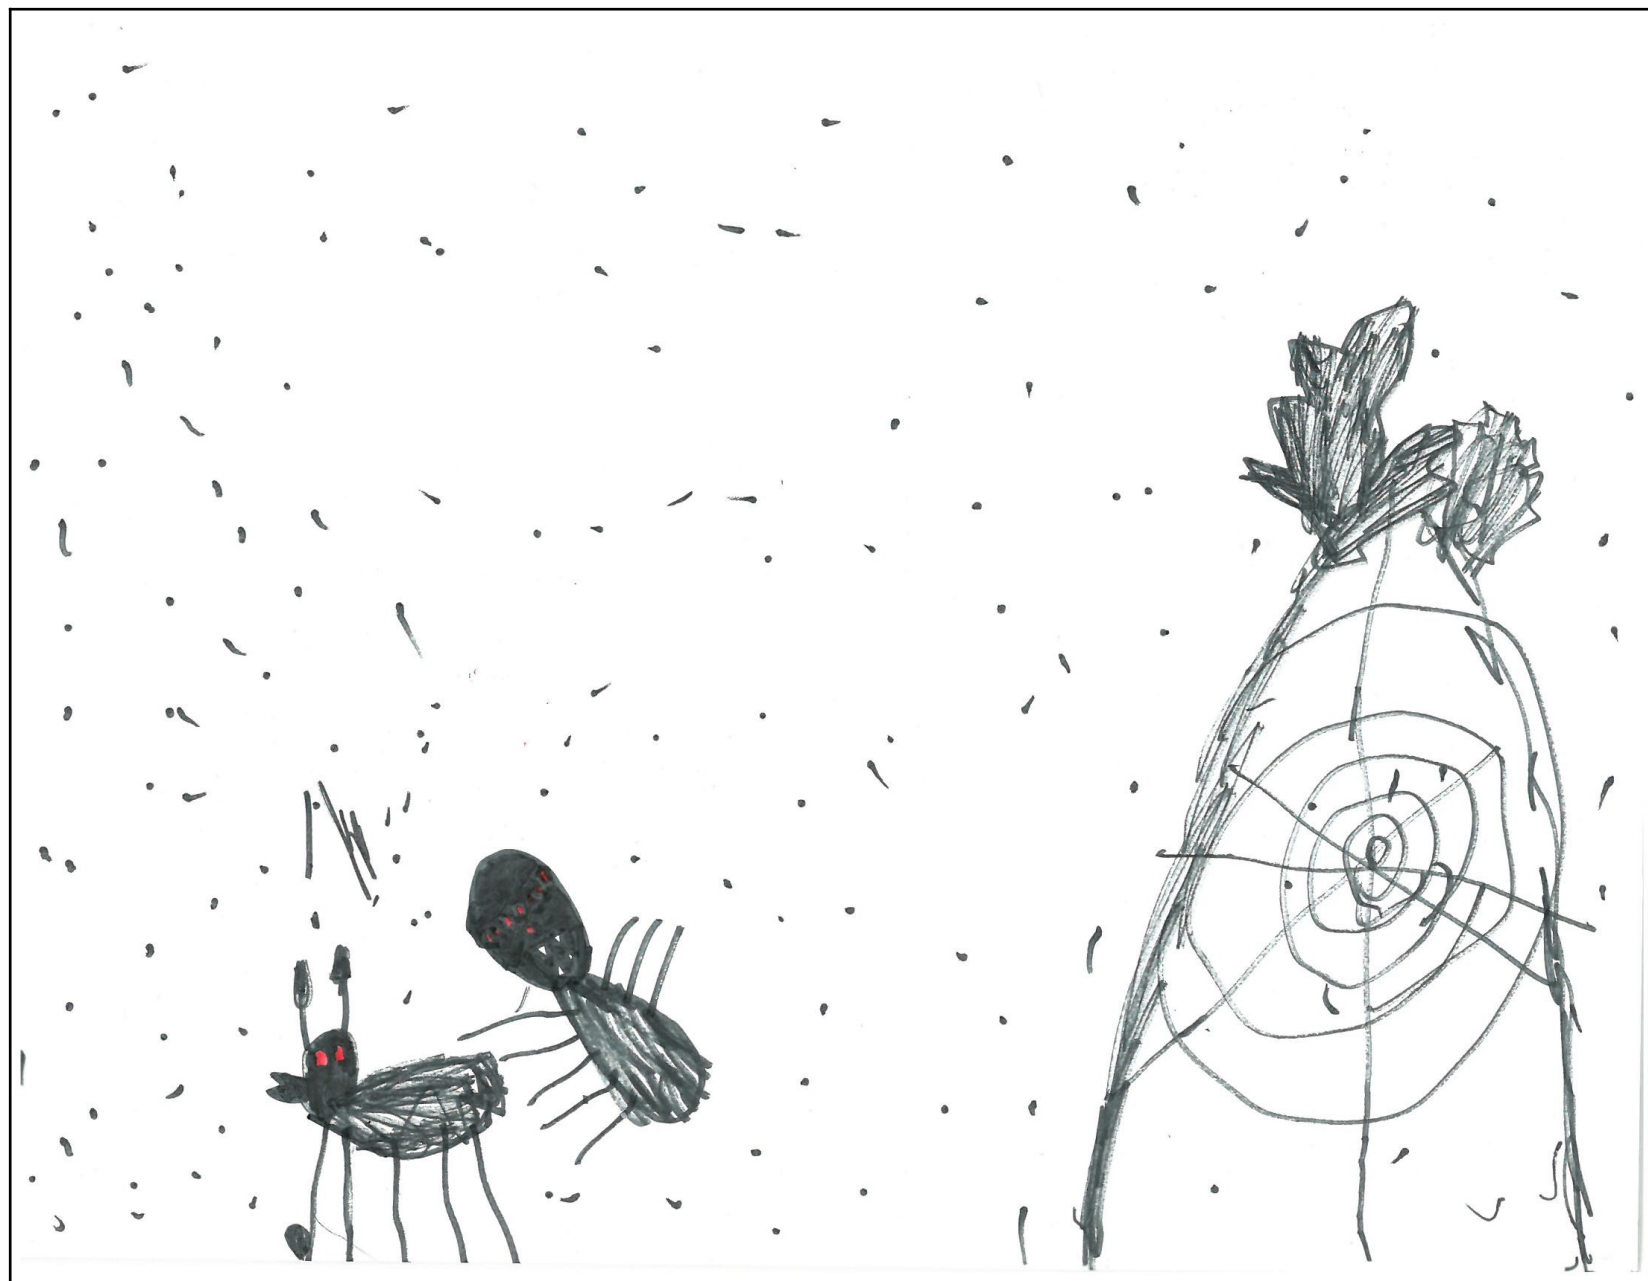

She lived in a beautiful forest but had been kicked out by a forest fire. She ran away and found an abandoned forest. She was walking through the forest making herself at home when she ran into a spider's web.

It was warm outside, but you couldn't tell it was summer in the abandoned forest. After running into the spider web Violet was wondering what had happened to this place.

That's when she felt the spider grab hold of her leg. She felt the spider tug and she screamed as the spider pulled off one of her legs with his sharp, sharp teeth!

Violet fell to the ground. The spider had to wait for an hour... He waited and waited. He thought she was ready to eat and it was lunchtime so he brought out his big sharp, sharp teeth and just when the spider thought Violet was a goner she woke up!

As soon as she saw his sharp, sharp, sharp teeth she tried to run but she looked down and she noticed she was stuck in a rock and she tried to bite herself out but she just hurt herself and she screamed, “OW!”

The spider noticed she was awake and then he went faster and faster until he couldn't go any faster and then finally she got out and she ran as fast as she could and she looked behind her and she noticed the glowing red eyes of the spider.

She ran even faster. Finally, she stopped and looked behind her. There were no glowing red eyes. The spider was gone!

She decided to celebrate by hiking to the end of the forest. She ran and ran and saw a little light. It got closer and closer until finally, she reached the end of the forest. She looked and she noticed.

Violet reached her goal, she had found a new world. She was proud of herself!

The End.
